Senatorial Elections

NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, January 21.—At a [illegible] 53 [illegible] the full republican caucus unanimously nominated A S Paddock United States senator to succeed Van Wyck. There were ninety five members. This settles the senatorial question in Nebraska and Paddock will be elected in joint session to-day. In joint session at noon to-day A S Paddock was elected United States senator to succeed Van Wyck. The vote was as follows: Paddock 81, Meshane (democrat), 32, Van Wyck 1.

INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS, January 21.—Contrary to general expectations the joint session of the legislature was again without result. The senate at noon proceeded to the hall of the house where two ballots were taken, the vote standing as heretofore: Turpie 75, Harrison 71, Allen 3.

XLIX Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 21.—In the senate to-day Mr. Colquitt in presenting a petition from the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the District of Columbia, said that he assumed no responsibility for the startling facts revealed in the petition, but he did answer for the pure motives and high character of those who laid it before the senate. The petition was bold and aggressive and challenged investigation of the facts. It was a plea which mothers and wives made to "This body of grave and reverend signors" for protection against such an excess of vice and lawlessness as should not only alarm but humiliate the senate. They would never disregard the voice of woman raised in behalf of social purity and public virtue. He asked that the petition be read at length and referred to the district committee.

The petition was read. It charges the commissioners of the District of Columbia with disregarding the purity, safety and moral interests and rights of the people, and asserts that in direct violation of the law they have been for months past permitting and protecting gambling hells, pool rooms and drinking establishments, as well as dens of prostitution and vice, and giving numerous particulars. It charges that a house owned by one of the commissioners is used as an office by the agent of the Louisiana state lottery, and that Frank Hume, the president of the liquor dealers' association, is a bondsman of one of the commissioners. It therefore prays for a thorough investigation of the facts and for proper enforcement of the law and protection of homes within the district.

Mr Hawley remarked that the petition just read was a tremendous indictment and shocking revelation, and he suggested that Colquitt should accompany it with a resolution calling for immediate and severe investigation.

Colquitt said he did not feel it incumbent on him to make any suggestion to the committee. He did not doubt that the committee would be in full sympathy with any movement to redress the heinous offence, and would suggest proper measures of redress.

The petition after debate was referred to the committee on the District of Columbia.

Numerous petitions were presented by several senators for the amendment of the oleomargarine law and for the repeal of the internal revenue laws, and were referred to the committee on finance.

Brown offered a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the president to communicate to the senate copies of all correspondence with the government of Mexico in regard to the seizure and sale of the American schooner Rebecca in the port of Tampico, also copies of all correspondence between the state department and the late Minister Jackson with Jackson's letter to the president on the subject of his resignation.

Edmunds gave notice on behalf of the committee on foreign relations that to-morrow immediately after completion of strict morning business he would ask the senate to consider the bill respecting protection of American fishermen which he had reported the other day.

Subsequently, however, the senate agreed to adjourn over till Monday.

The senate then went into secret session and when the doors were reopened adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

After reading of the journal the speaker stated that the regular order was a vote upon the adoption of the conference report on the inter state commerce bill.

Butterworth of Ohio asked unanimous consent to have a separate vote upon the fourth section and Weaver of Iowa asked to have a separate vote for the commissioner feature, but Crisp of Georgia objected to both requests.

Dunham of Illinois moved to recommit the bill to the conference committee, and Crisp raised a point of order against that motion.

The speaker knew of no rule which authorized [illegible] and sustained the point of order.

O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, inquired whether there was any parliamentary proceeding by which those gentlemen who were embarrassed by having to vote for or against an important bill without having an opportunity to divest it of all its objectionable features could be relieved of that embarrassment, but no suggestion to that end was made.

Vote was taken on the adoption of the conference report. It was agreed to: yeas 210, nays 41.

Those voting in the negative were Allen of Massachusetts, Anderson of Ohio, Bliss, Boutelle, Boyle, Brady, Burleigh, Campbell of Ohio, Caswell, Dibble, Ely, Evans, Felton, Findlay, Frederick, Gay, Gilfillan, Grosvenor, Hayden, Hill, Johnson of New York, Kelley, Ketcham, Libby, Long, Markham, Morton, McKinley, Miller, Morrow, Oates, O'Neill of Pennsylvania, O'Neill of Missouri, Ranney, Reed of Maine, Rice, Seymour, Wadsworth, Wait, Weaver of Iowa and White of Pennsylvania. The bill after being enrolled and signed by the presiding officers of the two houses will be sent to the president for his action.

Crisp of Georgia, from the committee on commerce, reported back the resolution requesting the secretary of the treasury to make inquiry of contractors of passenger cars and steamboats and other persons he may think capable of giving information on the subject as to the best methods of constructing and heating the same. Adopted.

Skinner, of North Carolina, presented the conference report upon the bill for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians, and it was agreed to.

Baker, of New York, from the committee [illegible] reported a bill for the appointment of [illegible] justices of the supreme court of Wyoming territory. Committee of the whole.

The house then proceeded to consideration of private business.

At the evening session the house passed twenty pension bills, including one granting a pension of $50 a month to the widow of General Thomas Francis Meagher, and at 11 20 adjourned till to-morrow.

National Board of Trade

WASHINGTON, January 21.—The national board of trade discussed a resolution favoring government aid to the improvement of the Columbia, (Oregon), river. Senator Dolph of Oregon spoke in its favor. The resolution was rejected.

The following resolution, submitted by the Chicago board of trade, was adopted after a short discussion:

Resolved, That immediate attention of the national congress be called to the effect of contagious diseases of animals upon the internal and external commerce of the country and the necessity for such legislation as will provide for control and suppression of such diseases.

A resolution proposed by the Cincinnati chamber of commerce advocating the repeal of so much of the Bland law as provides arbitrarily for the purchase of bullion and the coinage of standard silver dollars, and authorizing the president of the United States to take such steps in international intercourse and treaty as will promptly tend toward the establishment of a uniform international system of bimetallism, and to make such appropriations as may be necessary to make the president's authority in this matter effective, was adopted.

A resolution, also submitted by the Cincinnati chamber of commerce asking congress to consider at an early day the feasibility and practicability of converting one billion dollars of the present bonded debt into long term bonds bearing interest at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, with a view to the use of the same as security for national government deposits and other forms of trust, was after brief discussion adopted.

A resolution, to the effect that the most imperative and pressing duty was imposed on congress in the adoption of measures necessary to protect and fortify the coast and seaports of our country and to make adequate appropriation therefor, and that the defence of the harbors of New York and San Francisco should be the work first undertaken, [illegible] involving the largest risk and being the least protected of our large cities, was adopted, as was also a resolution proposed by the New York board of trade and transportation favoring reciprocity treaties with Canada and the republic of Mexico.

The Telephone Invention

CHICAGO, January 21.—The case of the United States against the Bell Telephone Co to test the validity of the Bell telephone patent is made the occasion of publication here this evening as to some of the points which will be employed by government counsel to combat Prof. Bell's claim to being the inventor of the telephone. The Evening Journal in outlining the evidence publishes an interview with Antonio Meucci, an aged Italian who is here and has in his possession many certified papers from the patent office which give credence to his claim to have invented the telephone and filed a caveat five years before his patent were obtained. His discovery dates back to 1840 when he was director of mechanism in the Tacon opera house in Cuba. During his leisure hours he experimented on a plan to cure diseases by the aid of electricity. In the course of these experiments his assistant and himself being in different rooms were connected by electrical circuit through the medium of a wire. Meucci held the wire in his teeth and by the well known dental connection with the auditor distinctly heard the exclamation of his assistant. This discovery started Meucci on a search of investigation, which resulted in the construction of a perfect working model similar to the instrument of Prof Bell. His constant struggles with poverty interferred so in perfecting his plans that it was not till 1871 his caveat was granted. Documentary evidence now on file in the secret archives of the patent office is also published by the Journal showing that the claims of Meucci to inventing telegraphing sound was recognized by the commissioner of patents, together with acknowledgment of improvements in 1852 and 1858, and that the claims embody in great part the patent issued to Prof Bell.

New Mexican Land Claims

WASHINGTON, January 21.—The commissioner of the general land office has sent the secretary of the interior, for transmission to congress, a report by Surveyor General Julian of New Mexico, [illegible] claims in that territory. In the case of [illegible] Pecos grant the surveyor general recommends that it be confirmed to thirty six persons named in the act of judicial possession, their heirs and legal representatives. The area of this grant is about 18,000. In the case of Canada De Santa Clara claim No. 135 [illegible] claim No. 55 of Las Vegas [illegible] 6583 acres. [illegible] commissioner concurs.

GENERAL NEWS.

George Challenges the Archbishop to Explain

Gould's Direct Line from Denver to New Orleans.

Another Crisis in the French Cabinet Imminent

George and the Archbishop

NEW YORK, January 21.—At the palace of the archbishop on Fifth avenue, a reporter was this morning informed that Archbishop Corrigan was too busy to see any one. His secretary, McDonnell, when asked if the archbishop intended to make any reply to Henry George's challenge in to-day's Standard said: "The archbishop will make a statement this afternoon and will reply to Henry George's challenge." It is known that the archbishop called his counselors together this morning and held a lengthy meeting, at which the whole situation was discussed together with Henry George's challenge relating to an order which it is claimed was sent by the archbishop to the priests against the constitutional convention. The challenge created quite a stir among the priests of the diocese, and they are very anxious to know what the archbishop's reply will be.

It was stated to-day by a friend of George's that the labor leader had in his possession or could get possession of several orders which the archbishop had sent out, and that the statements he made he could prove. A priest who is well known among the parishioners of St Stephen's church said that he had not seen any orders from the archbishop relating to the constitutional convention. He said that all the priests in the diocese had received a caution not to talk about the McGlynn case among themselves nor to outsiders.

Gould's New Line

ST. LOUIS, January 21.—It is stated on the best authority that Jay Gould is about to have a direct line of railroad from Denver to New Orleans. The line to Memphis, Tenn., is marked out on the maps as follows: Starting from Memphis the line will acquire the road now being constructed from Memphis to Bald Knob, Ark. From their connection will be built to Chetopa, Kansas, the terminus of the Memphis and Atlantic road and will follow the latter road to its other terminus at Kingman, Kansas, and will be built thence to Denver in a direct line. If this plan should be carried out, as it is stated, the contemplated road will be almost a perfect air line from Denver to Memphis. What route will be followed east of Memphis is not known here.

French Crisis Imminent.

PARIS, January 21.—The budget committee of the chamber of deputies has by vote of 15 to 6 rejected the amended budget presented by Dauphin, minister of finance, providing for the issue of bonds to the amount of 375,000,000 francs, redeemable in sixty six years, to meet temporary needs of the government. Dauphin is consequently expected to resign and a cabinet crisis is imminent. The present ministry was formed on the seventh ult.

Labor Difficulty

NEW YORK, January 21.—The boycott by the Longshoremen's union of freight carried by the Old Dominion Steamship company proceeded with its usual vigor to-day, and both sides are waiting for the expected storm to burst. The Post says that nearly all the steamship companies, with one exception, are determined to resist the action of the strikers and that the first boycotted freight handled by any of the steamship companies will be a signal for a general strike. The Longshoremen's union has not only boycotted freight carried by the Old Dominion Co, but also the lighter men who have let their boats to the Old Dominion Co as well as lighters whose captains are not union men. It is expected that the action of Judge Shipman in issuing an order compelling the French company to receive freight that had been brought into port by the Old Dominion Co will hurry along the general strike.

Father McGlynn's Parishioners

NEW YORK, January 21.—Father McGlynn's old parishioners intend to hold a meeting in the basement of St Stephen's church to-morrow [illegible] in support of Father Donnelly [illegible]. It is believed that Donnelly will call in the police to prevent it if necessary.

JERSEY CITY, January 21.—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company this afternoon withdrew Pinkerton men from the prominent position they have been holding on the embankment to the rear of the yards near the docks, and their places have been taken by Jersey City policemen. Application has been made by Captain Foley, leader of the Pinkerton men, to have his men sworn in as deputies by the sheriff.

HOUSE.

During the reading of the journal a communication was received from the senate giving notice of the passage of C. S. B. No. 12, concerning the supreme court, and asking the house to concur in the same.

The committee on condition referred two bills back to the house for the reason that the committee were divided. The bills related to the acquirement of lands in Colorado by non-resident aliens and forfeiture to the state of the same.

After a number of bills were presented, read and referred, the house went into committee of the whole, Hammitt in the chair.

H B No 35 was read. It provides that all district, county and precinct officers, as well as judges of the supreme court shall assume their offices on the next Tuesday in January following their election, except county treasurers, whose term of office shall commence on the first Monday of July.

Sutherland, who introduced the bill, spoke in its favor, and it was decided to report in favor of its passage.

H B No 51, for making the new county of Chicott out of Weld, was next considered. The bill received considerable discussion and the committee arose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

At the afternoon session, after a little routine business the house went into committee of the whole, Wells in the chair, and resumed discussion of H B 51 for the creation of [illegible] county. It was agreed that the committee report the bill to be engrossed and placed on third reading and passed.

H B 4[illegible] to prevent aliens and non-residents from acquiring title to real estate in Colorado and for acquiring such property now held by them by the state. Referred to the judiciary committee.

H B No 53, an act relating to coyotes, wolves, bears and mountain lions was called up. This bill is a revival of the bounty laws which were repealed by the last legislature, and proposes bounty as follows: Coyote scalps $1, grey wolf $5, lions and bears $10 each. After a discussion lasting nearly all the afternoon it was agreed to amend it by making the bounty on coyotes' scalps $1 50 instead of $[illegible] and the committee arose and the house adjourned.

The Cleveland Tragedy.

CLEVELAND, January 21.—Thousands of people visited the morgue to-day to get a view of Mrs. Coblek, the dead murderess, and her three children. The father, it is feared, will be demented. He sobs and moans at his desolate home and refuses to be comforted. That the mother was insane seems beyond question. James, aged 13, was stabbed sixteen times, and Antoinette, aged 8, thirteen times, yet, strange to say, they still live, although physicians say they will surely die.

Gov Alger's Benevolence

DETROIT, January 21.—Information of another of ex-Governor R. A. Alger's extensive benevolences has just leaked out through fuel and flour dealers who were connected with the enterprise. Through his private secretary and a few trusted friends he found five hundred needy families during the recent cold snap and to each of them was sent a barrel of flour and a ton of coal or cord of wood. The scenes at the delivery of the needed gifts were often pitiful and pathetic, many families being entirely destitute.

Death of Mrs Voorhees

WASHINGTON, January 21.—Mrs. Voorhees, wife of Senator Voorhees, died at their residence in this city at 5 o'clock of acute peritonitis. She was taken sick on Monday last with congestive chills followed by inflammation of the bowels, which terminated fatally. The remains will be taken to Terre Haute, Ind., probably to-night, and the funeral service will be held there Sunday next.

A canvass of the Ohio legislature recently on presidential preferences gave Sherman 46 votes, Blaine 8, Foraker 2 and the rest scattering or unwilling to express an opinion. Ex Governor Foster says that the state is unanimous for Sherman But he further says that if Sherman cannot get it Blaine is the favorite. Sherman has not the personal following nor immense popularity Blaine has, but he is a candidate who would meet with the favor of the business men and inspire confidence throughout the party. He is now sixty-three years old, but is nevertheless in the full possession of all his powers and is recognized as the leader of the republican members of the senate When thirty-two years of age he was elected president of the first republican convention held in Ohio. He was elected to congress in 1854 and took his seat in 1855. He has served continuously since in either the house or senate except during the four years of Hayes' administration, when he was secretary of the treasury. Thus for thirty one years, since he was thirty-two years of age, he has been in active public life. Few men are better equipped for this position either by experience or talent. Since he has declared for bimetallism he is not objectionable to the silver states. The Ohio idea is a good one this time.

* *

Six years ago A. S. Paddock was a candidate for re-election to the United States senate. He was then defeated by Senator Van Wyck and retired to private life Now he turns the tables on Van Wyck and re-enters as Van Wyck leaves. It is a singular fact, but Nebraska has never yet given any citizen two continuous terms in the senate Thayer, Hitchcock, Paddock, Sanders, Van Wyck and Manderson have followed each other, and now we have the first senator elected to a second term. Apparently Nebraska has too much politics. The politicians try to make the honors go around. The defeat of Van Wyck is not under circumstances that reflect honor on Nebraska. He was a man to have been "honored for the enemies he had made." A. S Paddock was born at Glenn's Fall, N Y, in 1830. He was educated at Union college and studied law. He removed to Omaha in 1857, and was appointed secretary of Nebraska in 1861 by Abraham Lincoln, which office he held until the admission of the state in 1867, was independent republican candidate for congress in 1866, was appointed governor of Wyoming territory in 1868, and declined and was elected United States senator from Nebraska, to succeed Thomas W. Tipton, taking his seat in March 1875

It will be remembered that Secretary Teller, in the last two days of his administration of the interior department, had clerks working night and day making out patents for the land grant to the New Orleans Pacific Railroad company, which obtained its right to the land from an assignment from the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg railroad Edmunds says this purchase of the land grant was one of the most audacious frauds ever practiced in the United States The senate considered this land grant last Tuesday, and it is noticeable that the senator knowing most on this subject was silent. The report in the Chicago Tribune of Wednesday was as follows:

> The senate took up the house bill to declare a forfeiture of the lands granted to the New Orleans, Baton Rouge & Vicksburg Railroad company (the Backbone railroad), the forfeiture to apply to the lands east of the Mississippi, and to confirm to the New Orleans Pacific Railroad company (the assignee of the other company) the other granted lands not forfeited
>
> Mr Eustis supported the first proposition, but opposed the second, and offered a substitute for the whole bill The substitute declared forfeited all the lands originally granted, with a proviso confirming titles acquired from any railroad company by any bona fide settlers
>
> Mr. Gibson offered an amendment to the original bill protecting the rights of the settlers and argued against the substitute offered by his colleague
>
> Mr. Eustis advocated his substitute and spoke of the near time when the overshadowing influences and power of corporate bodies over legislation would be checked, subjected and destroyed The conditions of the grant as to the time when the railroad should be completed had not been complied with, and therefore the grant ceased to operate
>
> Mr. Edmunds argued against the bill He characterized the purchase of the grant from the "Backbone Railroad" as one of the most audacious deals ever practiced in the United States, and that was saying a good deal.
>
> The amendment offered by Mr Gibson was agreed to without division The question was then taken on the substitute offered by Mr Eustis, and it was rejected—yeas 11, nays 35 The bill as amended was then passed without division
>
> [The bill as passed declares forfeited the lands granted to the New Orleans, Baton Rouge & Vicksburg Railroad company by the act of March 3, 1871, as to that part of the grant situate on the east side of the Mississippi river, and also as to that part on the west of the Mississippi which is opposite to and coterminous with the part of the New Orleans Pacific Railroad company which was completed January 5, 1881. It relinquishes and confirms to the New Orleans Pacific Railroad company, as the assignee of the New Orleans, Baton Rouge & Vicksburg, the lands not so declared forfeited, such lands to be located in accordance with the map filed by the New Orleans Pacific company in the department of interior October, 1881, and November, 1882, indicating the definite location of the route; provided that all the lands occupied by settlers and still remaining in their possession shall be deemed exempt from such grant.]

Powderly's Nerves.

New York Sun

General Master Workman Powderly is not at all the ideal man of power He is a bundle of nerves, and they stick out all over him. He is impulsive, and it doesn't take much to make him fly into a passion He wouldn't kill a fly willingly, yet sometimes in a fit of exasperation he dances about and talks like the blood thirstiest of men And it amuses some of his associates to hear him, for they know that he is as timid as a woman about firearms, and wouldn't know how to fire a pistol if he had one So one day when something had gone wrong he jumped up and skipped about the room, shouting "I wish I had a pistol. I would shoot the son of a gun" To which the stolid Bailey replied "You wouldn't know whether a pistol was loaded from the handle or the muzzle, Terry" "Well, I'd like to blow him up all the same," Terry replied "That you are perfectly capable of doing," said Bailey, "with your tongue" Half an hour later Terry had blown his man up, and the Knight didn't seem to know it, for he was smiling and chirping with Powderly as pleasantly as a clerk to a pretty costumer

Powderly despises whisky from principle, but he abhors tobacco from constitutional reasons. When the executive committee meet to talk with him they are very careful to take their quids from their mouths The master workman's nostrils are as acute as a tobacco hating wife's Hayes uses no tobacco. But Bailey and Turner quit smoking when they saw how distasteful it was to Powderly Barry, however who has a good deal of obstinacy in his nature, simply compromised by leaving his cigar behind him when he met with Powderly. One day, however, he took an unlighted cigar into the room Powderly was particularly nervous that day, and though up to his ears in exciting business, began pretty soon to sniff and frown and betray annoyance "Aha, it is you!" he shrieked at last, getting up and dancing about the room "But I ain't smoking it, Terry," said Barry. "I don't care. I'd just as soon see a man with a junk of brimstone in his mouth as one of those infernal things." Barry laughed and put the cigar away out of the room

Pierce and Hawthorne

Ben Perley Poore

Soon after General Pierce was elected president he visited Boston and received a visit from his old friend, Nathaniel Hawthorne, to whom he said "What can I do for you, Nat" "I have long wished to see you," replied Hawthorne, "and I have hoped that you would be able to appoint me to a foreign mission." "No, no," replied Pierce "Let me tell you a little story. Soon after General Taylor was elected president, Jenifer went to him and asked for a foreign mission, saying that he could live on his outfit and save up his salary. The president appointed him. He went to Vienna, lived snugly on his outfit, and saved his salary, and was happy in the realization of his plans On the eve of his departure he called on the Countess d Esterhazy, who was mistress of ceremonies at court, and expressed regret to her that his social position as a bachelor prevented him from reciprocating the attentions he had received. The countess listened to him graciously and then said that it would not do for him to go away without giving an entertainment. This she offered to arrange, and told him all he would need to do was to pay the bills The entertainment was a magnificent one and the bills amounted to upward of $5000. So Jenifer came home penniless and had to take a subordinate clerkship in the treasury department Now," continued the president elect, "I do not propose to send you where you will have a repitition of Jenifer's case, but I will give you the consulate at Liverpool, where you will be able to save a little money." The Liverpool consulate was accordingly given to Hawthorne, and he was enabled to save a considerable sum while he held it

An Irish Horse Trade

The Spectator

The following story was told to a clerical friend in the west of this county by a countryman named Dinny Cooley "Good-morrow, Dinny, where did you get the horse?" "Well, I'll tell your reverence Sometime ago I went to the fair of Ross, not with this horse, but another horse. Well, sorra a wan said to me, 'Dinny, do you come from the aist or do you come from the wesht?' and when I left the fair there wasn't wan to say, 'Dinny, are you going to the aist or are you going to the wesht' Well, your reverence, I rode home, and was near Kilnagross, when I met a man riding along the road forninst me Good evening, friend, said he 'Good evening, friend,' said I 'Were you at the fair of Ross?' says he 'I was,' says I 'Did you sell?' says he 'No,' sez I' 'Would you sell?' sez he. 'Would you buy?' says I 'Would you make a clane swop?' sez he; horse, bridle and saddle, and all?" sez he. 'Done!' says I Well, your reverence, I got down off av me horse, not this horse but the other horse, and the man got down off av his horse, that's this horse, not the other horse, and we swopped and rode away. But when he had gone about twenty yards he turned round and called after me 'There niver was a man from Ross,' sez he, 'but could put his finger in the eye av a man from from Kilnagross,' sez he, 'and that horse,' sez he, 'that I swopped with you,' sez he, 'is blind av an eye,' sez he Well then, your reverence, I turned upon him, and I called out to him 'There niver was a man from Kilnagross,' sez I, 'but could put his two fingers in both the eyes av a man from Ross,' sez I, 'and that horse that I swopped with you,' sez I, 'is blind av both his eyes,' sez I"

Germany and France

London Standard

Some time ago you published in your columns a detailed description of a scheme for piercing the Simplon, and thereby forming a new and direct railway route from Paris to Milan. That this prediction would in all probability have been fulfilled there is every reason to believe had it not been for rival schemes, each of which found a considerable number of supporters. Of these schemes the ones which attracted most notice, after the Simplon, were the Mont Blanc and Great St. Bernard routes.

The Mont Blanc tunnel scheme has dropped out of sight for the time at least, but the St Bernard and the Simplon still hold their ground In fact, up to a short time ago the Simplon might be said to have had the running all to itself, and a syndicate of financiers was actually formed to raise the necessary capital Since then the St. Bernard idea has been persistently forced upon public attention by its promoters, and opinion as to the respective merits of each scheme may be said to be pretty equally balanced, though if anything inclining to the Simplon

Upon France, and France alone, depends the decision as to which of the two projected tunnels shall be made. If it were a mere question of commercial utility and probable remunerative returns, the St Bernard could not hold a candle to the Simplon, but the real question is, Which route would be most useful to France in case of a great European war in which France might find Italy arrayed against her? This will be better understood by those who know how extremely jealous France is of the St Gothard, this jealousy arising from the fact, or the supposition, that from a strategical point of view the St. Gothard gives more advantages to Germany than to France. Whether this be true or not, it is beyond dispute that the route of the new Alpine tunnel will be determined in Paris, for from France must come the subsidy requisite for the promoters to give practical effect to their scheme By this Simplon route there would be a saving of 105 kilometres between Paris and Brindisi as compared with the St Gothard, and as this may be said to represent nearly three hours in time, it is a strong point in favor of the Simplon The cost of the tunnel and the additional lines necessitated by it will not fall short of 70 000 000 francs, and may even reach 80,000 000. In order to make the line remunerative the company would have to carry annually 250,000 passengers, 240,000 tons of merchandise and minerals, and 200 000 head of cattle. The projectors are not only sanguine of getting this amount of traffic, but say that there is a strong probability that the figures will be exceeded very largely

So much for the Simplon, which up to a few weeks ago was favored by the federal government. Recently, however, a conference has been held at Paris, presided over by a well-known engineer, M de Vautherelet, who has pronounced strongly in favor of the St. Bernard route, which would offer "greater strategic value to France." Almost simultaneously with this opinion a French military paper—(La France Militaire) violently denounces the Simplon route as "a German strategic line" (sic) The result is the federal government seems to be halting between two opinions, and it has been publicly stated though upon what authority it is difficult to say—that Prince Bismarck is trying to bring pressure to bear upon the federal government in favor of the Simplon

The Mozart Concert

The following article concerning the Mozart society and the concert recently given under its auspices has been written for and will appear in the British American of Denver It was written by "B A G," the correspondent of that journal in this city and is as follows

In a pamphlet entitled "The Pianist," written by Liszt ten years ago in the French language, and just published, he says "I am not an ordinary pianist who merely renders artistically the artistic creations of a Bach, Handel and Beethoven I am proud, very proud of being an artistic musician, but I cannot refrain from expressing how little I esteem purely imitative musicians Between them and real, good artists there is a vast difference I consider higher music as a sort of connecting link between God and man, real artists being demi gods, and myself one of them Why should I not say so? Already as a child admired and venerated, I went in triumph from capital to capital, everywhere enthusiastically received and feted by princes, princesses, bishops and prelates, kings and emperors, and crowned with wreaths of glory by the most brilliant men and women, the flower of the best society Might I have not been deceived and blinded by these marks of honor and glory? And yet I have not indulged my vanity, and I declare frankly, that I am a pianist merely in order to use the talent given me by God, whose glory my whole life shall praise in the profoundest humility."

This occasion affords me the grateful opportunity of giving you a few musical notes In view of the prosperity experienced here of late by the influx of invalids and visitors, and the Springs being now a railroad center it was thought advisable and even necessary to form a musical nucleus to signify the culture of the place On this intention being bruited it was heartily responded to by many of our best citizens It was well known that there were lots of latent talent, but to get it together seemed a formidable difficulty An executive committee was appointed consisting of Mrs C A Eldredge and Messrs L R Ehrich and Rev G E Merrill who are all worthy of unmeasured praise for their efforts which resulted in the formation of the Mozart Choral society now in full operation and numerously supported by active and associate members The delightful concert given last Tuesday evening was the outcome of the society's combined efforts The first part was miscellaneous, the second part being Mendelssohn's 42d Psalm I give you a resume of the more prominent features of the concert

Mr Oscar Saone sang "The Deserter" with great force and fire, and was well received He has a full round and stentorian tone, and his phrasing and delivery are excellent Mr Saone rendered "Yeoman Service" in solo, quartette and chorus He is soulful of music and is quite an artist

Mrs C A Eldredge, assisted by a chorus of ladies, sang "Ave Maria" As a whole it was finely given The few bars of intermittent solo was quite a tasteful treat It is a wee mite of a thing but was executed so chastely bo ole that I want to hear from this lady again

Mrs A W Palmer is the possessor of the best soprano that I have heard in many years. It is a fascinating example of the Silvery Klang, as the Germans call it So close and even is the entire compass, with no bawl or overtone in any part of it Her execution is equal to her voice Her rendition of "Una Voce Poco Fa" was unique and charming The limpid rippling scales and te rachords that were dashed off declared the consummate artist. Her phrasing is also admirable (These remarks are not contingent on the fact that she appeared under the ægis of the Mozart society, but by reason of real and high merit) Mrs Palmer responded to an encore with a pleasant English lullaby, and gave "O Holy Night" in a like finished style

Miss Jessie Hardy of Denver acquitted herself ably throughout, her first number being a solo from her own repertoire, and showed the amplitude and quality of her voice to advantage. In this she was well supported by piano and violin, and gained an encore The lower part of her voice is very fine, but as I am more given to truth telling than to gilding it appeared to me that in her higher register there is a little raucity and unevenness, with a slight tendency to tremolo While her interpretation of the trying music of Mendelssohn was generally effective, her too fierce and undevotional attacks on the high notes could scarcely be construed into the imploring desires of the crowned minstrel who left us the Forty second Psalm Her greatest triumph was in her splendid delivery of the recitative, "My Tears Have Been My Meat," and the joyous minor strains that follow In recitative the accompaniment only indicates the chords whereon the vocal phrases are constructed The passage is not muffled by instrumentation, and is always a severe task of declamation and artistic skill The vocalist threw intense feeling and fine expression into this number Altogether, Miss Hardy made a very favorable impression, as was indicated by the responsive audience. She had many disadvantages to contend with Her having taken Miss Black's place at twenty four hours' notice, the accompaniment being new to her and the surroundings strange were sufficient to agitate one of stronger nerve. But such matters are rarely considered by the public. They simply want good music and they got it

The local press are loud in their praises of the male quartette This will not be challenged as I am confident that some of them did the incompetent best

The choruses and part songs while not highly finished and finely shaded, were creditable to a society of such tender age. Prof. Broad deserves great praise for forcing the society into such a state of efficiency in so short a time

Miss Coombs accompanied with superior taste and skill and the professor wielded the baton with tact and precision

It was obvious that the strength and efficiency of the society were not fully appreciated when it was deemed expedient that extraneous assistance should be brought into requisition. This was an error in judgment arising from a well-meant and fond desire to please the public, and a too little faith in the ability of individual members However all's well that ends well and the mistake is not likely to occur again The society is not, nor should be ambitious beyond the musical capacity of its members It is a home affair—an elevating factor indigenous to Colorado Springs For there were neither Cultured English, nor Indicated invalid but simply (with one exception) old timers, aided by a few enthusiastic new comers The federating and uniting influences that must inevitably accrue from these rehearsals will be of lasting social and refining benefit to the city And the executive, the active and the associate members of the Mozart Choral society may feel proud of their being the progenitors of classical choral music here, and have reason to be much gratified at the triple success of their first grand concert—musically, numerically and financially

Fantasma

The performance to be given by the Hanlon Bros at the opera house Monday evening will be entirely different from anything our people have ever had an opportunity of witnessing Many wonderful things will be done The San Francisco Alta says of their performance

"It is many days since the Baldwin held such a crowded up stairs and down as it did last night, and it is not often that a manager has the fortune to secure an attraction that appeals to all sorts and condition of people as "Fantasma" does From the raising of the first curtain to the lowering of the ultimate rag the house was either wildly hilarious or hushed with expectation Everything worked splendidly for a first night and one needs good eyes to watch the numerous mechanical changes which constitute the programme proper It abounds in fairies demons and mortals, who are scattered through its evening's run with a view to make an entertainment marvelous and full of fun, having as its principal contributor Alex Zanfretta, who was lustily welcomed and enthusiastically received in every place of appearance as Pico His many experiences were of that luckless class which produce any amount of fun, as he was continually mystified The tableaux were very fine in their presentation, those of the second act being particularly so representing "The Four Seasons," "Over the Garden Wall," "Peek a Boo" "Paint," "Can't You Talk," etc Another taking feature was the introduction of Little Aimee in specialties, which brought down the house, with her precocious manner and freedom before the footlights"

The Markets

NEW YORK January 21 Money on call easy, 3 to 5, closing 4, prime paper 6 to 7, sterling exchange dull and unchanged, governments dull and steady The stock market was feverish and irregular The bulls generally had the better of the situation in the morning but after the passage of the inter state commerce bill the bears made a combined attack upon the market and even the conspicuously strong stocks of the morning became weak

Shovelling Out Pure Gold

Globe-Democrat

A gentleman from Lafayette county, Arkansas, brings with him a mining proposition that fairly startles the old forty niners of Third street. He has a mine that stopes and drifts itself, all that was needed in the first place was a shaft, and that has been sunk A contractor began boring a well, which the specifications said should be sixty feet deep. He bored fifty feet, and then his drill fell several feet. It was withdrawn and the sand bucket was let down and when it was brought up it was filled with a black sand that looked like iron filings and mixed with it were little particles of metal, the nature of which could not be discovered The contractor attempted to take out the sand to sink the well to the depth specified but he soon found that, like a stream of water, as soon as a part was removed its place was filled, and he gave up the attempt. The man for whom he was boring the well refused to pay him for his work, as he had not gone down sixty feet, and, not caring to lose his work, he began to examine the sand to see if it could be utilized in any way. Finding these particles of metal he sent a sample to a chemist, who assayed it and reported that the sand contained free gold and metallic copper The contractor enlarged the well hole and made a shaft of it. He sunk it to within two feet of the sand and put in a blast. After the smoke had cleared away he went down and found the sand bubbling and boiling like a kettle of water Samples were sent to St. Louis and the assay returned eleven pounds of gold to the ton, but this is only a small part of it The gold being heavier than the sand will, of course, be found in greater quantities on the bottom than on the top of the vein, if it may be called a vein, and if it runs eleven pounds on top it may be all gold on the bottom If that is the case all that will be needed will be a well bucket and a coal-scoop to land pure gold on the surface

Negro Repartee

Youth's Companion

The fun of the negro is chiefly in his good nature His failures at wit are sometimes irresistibly laughable from their comical candidness As an example of misdirected incapacity for wit is the following attempt at a pun A venerable darky rebuked the familiarity of some of his white neighbors, after the war by stating to them, with emphasis "I ain't yer uncle any mo' I ain't yer aunt"

But, to offset this, there is credited to the very same source the really witty observation that he was "not colored—he was born so"

A colored witness in court was witty through the stupidity of the examining counsel The man of law asked "When you first saw the man on horseback where was he?" and the answer of the witness was "On the horse's back, sah"

The next question failed to get the attorney out of the predicament

"After he was hit with the club, or whatever it was, where was he"

"On his own back, sah"

"What did you kill my sheep for" inquired a farmer of a darky

"Any sheep dat bites me I kill" was the answer This shows discrimination, but hardly equal to that in the following A visitor at the capital asked a polite negro if his master was a Christian The answer was, "No sah he's a member of congress"

A very good story is told at the expense of Nicholas Biddle, known as "Nick" Biddle by the political opponents of the United States bank of which he was president

He one day met Henry, an old negro waiter, and asked him if he was not sometimes called "Old Harry"

"Yes sah, and sometimes dey calls me 'Ole Nick'"

ABOUT SEWING MACHINES.

During the past seven years, I have sold more sewing machines than any other dealer in Colorado with perhaps one or two exceptions. My traveling agents have called upon almost every family living within fifty miles of Colorado Springs and in some directions have canvassed the country for a much greater distance. And yet, I presume, there are people living in this city to day, who are ignorant of the fact that I carry one of the largest stocks of sewing machines in the state people who if an agent from abroad were to offer them a sewing machine for sale, would buy of him, never thinking that they could buy a similar machine of a home agent, on the same or more favorable terms. To any one who will give the matter consideration the advantage of buying a sewing machine of an agent who is permanently established, and near home must appear evident To the list of different machines I have heretofore handled, I have recently added another to which I am I am proud to call your attention—the "Automatic," or New Wilcox & Gibbs This machine has peculiarities possessed by no other kind, and points of superiority which make it conspicuous, among the leading machines of the day. Other companies have tried to invent a tension to equal the unique automatic, but with indifferent success No other machine can claim such an easy and noiseless motion The only objection to the machine, in fact, is its price, which is so high that it can only be afforded by people in easy financial circumstances, though many will deny themselves in other things, to be able to own such a perfect treasure. The Wilcox and Gibbs Sewing Machine company are imperative in their demands for uniform prices, and I only secured the agency of their machine by pledging myself to make no discount from the list prices to anybody, under any circumstances. Other makes of machines I can offer on more favorable terms, and I have a lot of second hand machines, taken in trade, which I wish to close out at from five to ten dollars each Mr. McLain now looks after the sewing machine department at the music store, No 8, North Tejon street, but if you consider it important to consult with me you can find me at the museum on Pike's Peak avenue

There have been abundant evidences in the past few days to indicate the existence of sneak thieves in the city. Stephan & Clough had a table stolen from in front of their place of business on Wednesday evening, and last evening thieves entered a private residence and took two overcoats that were hanging on a rack.

Justice of the Peace Shideler yesterday bound the six men charged with burglarizing Mr. George Cant's residence over in the sum of $[illegible] each to appear at the next term of the district court. The evidence against all of the accused is of a very damaging nature and very little doubt exists as to the guilt of each and all of them.

Mr. R. J. Belcher was arraigned before Police Magistrate Shideler yesterday for digging and hauling dirt away from the Mesa road near Mr. J. M. Sneden's residence, contrary to section 8 of article 4 of an ordinance concerning offenses in the nature of misdemeanors. He was fined $10 and costs by the magistrate.

Yesterday City Marshal Saxton accompanied by Mayor Dow visited and inspected a number of buildings within the fire limits with a view to observing the precautions which have been taken against fire. With but one exception they found all stoves, etc., sufficiently guarded, and in the instance noted the proper precautions will be taken. They will continue their inspection until every building within the fire limits has been examined.

The second of the course of botanical lectures will be given at the parlors of the Congregational church next Monday afternoon at three o'clock. The rooms will be opened at a quarter past two so that those who attend may examine the microscopic preparations either before or after the lecture as may be more convenient for them. Those who can come early are recommended to do so as they will have a better light than later and there will be fewer in attendance.

Deputy Grand Master Geo. W. Lawrence installed last evening the following officers of Bullion Lodge No. [illegible], A. O. U. W., for the term ending December 31st, 1887, viz: Omer Palmer, past master; A. H. Corman, master; Joseph Dozier, foreman; Wm. H. Gumm, overseer; Seth Baker, recorder; R. B. Taylor, financier; Wm. Bush, receiver; F. Butzin, guide; M. E. Irving, inside watchman; L. King, outside watchman. Dr. George W. Lawrence is representative to the grand lodge which meets in Pueblo, on the second Tuesday in February.

Mr. F. P. Moon, of Husted, has furnished us with the following weather record for the week ending January 19th. Highest temperature, 62° on the 18th and 19th; lowest temperature, 2° below zero on the 17th; highest daily mean temperature, 36° on the 19th; lowest daily mean temperature, 1° on the 17th; weekly mean temperature, [illegible]; prevailing direction of the wind, west; clearest days 15th and 17th; cloudiest days, 13th and 16th.

Ericson & Gough, proprietors of the Chicago bakery, next door to the postoffice, have one of the neatest establishments of its kind in the city. They are now selling an excellent quality of bread and cakes. They moreover carry a stock of choice confectionery and make all kinds of pure home-made candies. In connection with their bakery they have fitted up a very attractive lunch room where lunches can be ordered at a very short notice. They make a specialty of ice cream and ices for private parties or public entertainments, and we are sure that all who have any occasion to deal with them will find them to be very accommodating and obliging gentlemen.

On Thursday night about half past twelve o'clock, Rose Jordon, a servant girl employed by Mr. J. W. Stillman, was awakened from her sleep by a noise at a window in the room in which she was sleeping. This window looked out upon the roof of the kitchen, and upon investigation she found that the lower sash had been raised and a stick placed under it. She took the stick out from under the sash, and, lowering the upper sash, looked out upon the kitchen roof. She was surprised to see two men lying flat upon it, one of whom when she cried "burglars" threw a brick at her which struck her in the forehead inflicting a very painful and serious wound. Before Mr. Stillman, who had been awakened by the cries of girl, could reach the room the miscreants effected their escape. It is supposed that their intention was to chloroform the girl and then ransack the house.

There were sixty-two members present at the meeting of the board of trade last evening when it was called to order by the president, F. E. Dow. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The board of directors presented a report of the proceedings of their last meeting which was read by the secretary. Reports were presented and received from the committees on railroads, tariffs and transportation, advertising, sewerage and drainage, and irrigation and water supply. The latter committee recommended that the board should indorse the action of the city council in petitioning congress to grant the city the tract of land which embraces Lake Moraine, which will be used for the purposes of a storage reservoir. On motion of Dr. Reed the action of the council was endorsed and the secretary was instructed to notify our senators and representative in congress of the action of the board. On motion of Mr. Ehrich the subject of advertising was made a topic for discussion at the next meeting of the board. The names of the following gentlemen have recently been added to the roll of members: W. J. Willcox, J. E. Newton, Charles Thurlow, E. G. Perkins, F. H. Howbert, F. A. Edwards, H. I. Reid, E. J. Eaton, A. A. McGovney, C. A. Lansing, W. Lennox and E. R. Taylor. The meeting then adjourned.

Fairley Bros. have notice from the manufacturers of the first two car shipment of Furniture to arrive early in February. The basis of costs as per contracts made with the manufacturers for the year, will enable us to make a further reduction in prices, and to very effectually hold our trade over all competitors. Our stock will be very materially increased for the year, and for elegance, greatest variety and lowest prices will not be excelled west of the Missouri river. Our manufacturing department is growing rapidly in favor. In the manufacturing of specialties to "your idea" during the past year's rush, not a single item has been left on our hands, which fact is a sufficient guarantee of the superior knowledge and taste of our upholsterer. Beyond question he is the finest and most practical upholsterer in the city, having learned his trade to perfection in the old country. We guarantee perfect satisfaction in quality, artistic design and price of every item of upholstering or cabinet work.

Bear in mind that we will, as usual, rule the low prices for the year. Respectfully,

PAINTS & WALL PAPER.

Our New Styles of WALL PAPER have been arriving for the last month, and we would say that our stock is the largest and best that can be seen in this city. We do not hesitate in saying that if any one is in want of Wall Paper and will give us a call but what we can please them in Styles and Prices, however fastidious they may be, and as we do not employ any but first-class trademen you can depend upon it that your work will be done so that you won't have to be doing it over every six months. You will then see that it don't pay you to employ those who resort to Painting and Paper Hanging when every other device has failed them for a living. Or should you listen to the recommends of those who talk them up, for they will only do so when there is money in it for themselves. Paints, Oil, Lead, Brushes, Varnishes, Glass and Window Shades.

GEORGE CANT & CO.

We have also on sale for a few days some of those English Gems of Art, which will be sold very cheap.
